Mayor rejects protesters' vote

CAMPAIGNERS took a vote of "no confidence" in a council director over his handling of controversial plans for 1,200 new homes.

At a sometimes-heated annual town meeting in Newmarket, leaders of the campaign against Lord Derby's plans to develop his land on the edge of the town at Hatchfield Farm accused Nigel McCurdy, district council strategic director, of overriding their views.

The development proposal is being opposed by the town's horse racing industry, whose leaders have argued that it could end the town's status as racing's headquarters.

Jacko Fanshawe, wife of trainer James Fanshawe, told the packed meeting in the town's Memorial Hall: "All we expected was a level playing field, but it's been far from fair."

"Everyone's opinion, bar those of Mr McCurdy, have been given scant regard."

She proposed a motion of no confidence in Mr McCurdy, who was at the meeting with Forest Heath District Council's other strategic director Andrew Claydon and the chief executive David Burnip.

Her proposal was applauded by the majority of the audience.

But Cllr Jane Bailey, Newmarket's mayor, who was chairing the meeting, refused to accept the resolution.

She said she had warned the Save Historic Newmarket action group – one of the bodies fighting the development – that a resolution on Hatchfield Farm would not be accepted.

Rachel Hood, whose husband is trainer John Gosden, seconded the proposal and asked for a show of hands – despite Cllr Bailey's protest that it would not be accepted.

India lifts 15-year ban on racehorses

A BAN on importing racehorses from Britain into India has been lifted after a 15-year campaign.

The Newmarket-based Thoroughbred Breeders' Association has been involved in major lobbying of government bodies in Britain and India.

Kirsten Rausing, chairman of the TBA, said: "The TBA has been working to secure the movement of horses since the restriction was imposed in 1995. This has been a long campaign, but one which stepped up a gear last year. Whilst it was unfortunate that we were unable to welcome Indian buyers to the 2009 Tattersalls December Sales, we now look forward to their return to British sales later this year."

"This campaign would not have succeeded without support from our opposite numbers, the National Horse Breeding Society of India, the excellent advice and support of the veterinary profession and DEFRA, who through Dr Mauricio Lopez, veterinary head Global Animal Health, represented the industry at high-level meetings in Delhi, supported by the British Trade

In our weekly column, reporter JOHN GOODE takes a look behind the racing scene to bring you news from in and around the stables.

Office in India.

"We also have to recognise the contribution made by a number of supporters, whose close contacts with India provided the necessary guidance and advice, local MPs and MEPs who also supported our intensive lobbying."

The ban was imposed because of worries in India about Contagious Equine Metritis (CEM) which is found in non-thoroughbred horses.

Now the Indian government has changed its rules to allow breeding horses to be imported if there is proof that the premises they have come from have been free of the disease for three years.

Edmond Mahony, chairman of racehorse auctioneers Tattersalls, said: "This is wonderful news for the British thoroughbred industry and a tribute to years of collective lobbying and hard work. Particular thanks should go to TBA chairman Kirsten Rausing who has worked tirelessly to achieve this breakthrough. Historically the December Sales have been a very happy hunting ground for Indian breeders and on behalf of all our vendors we look forward to welcoming them back to Tattersalls this year."

Fire crew tackles blaze in woods

FIREFIGHTERS were called to a blaze in an area of woodland.

The fire broke out in undergrowth in College Heath Road, Mildenhall, at 3.37pm last Friday.

One crew from Mildenhall attended the scene to find two areas of undergrowth on fire, around 10 square-metres in size.

Beaters and hoses were used to extinguish the flames and the crew returned to base at 4.07pm.

The cause of the fire is unknown.

Sponsor a cork in regatta

CORKS will bob along a river as part of a village's fundraising activities in aid of a new hall.

The cork regatta will be part of a fun day at Moulton, near Newmarket, on Sunday.

Villagers and visitors can sponsor a cork in the race.

The new village hall is currently being built, but an extra £30,000 is needed to help pay for the work after Forest Heath District Council cut back its grant towards the scheme.

For more details about the fun day, which starts with the race at midday, contact Bill Rampling, chairman of the parish council on (01638) 552631

Arson suspected in college grounds

A FIRE in school grounds damaged bins and a fence.

The incident, which is being investigated as arson, happened at Mildenhall College of Technology at around 5am on Sunday.

Police said the fire appeared to have started in some rubbish and spread to the school's bin store. Around £50 damage was caused.

Anyone with information should call Pc Ian Hawker at Mildenhall police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Vandal smashed glass in window on 'bad day'

A VANDAL was traced by blood he left on glass he smashed by punching a window.

Tobias Stevens, 21, punched the glass in a fire door at Newmarket's Foley House education centre during a "bad day" in which he had attempted suicide, magistrates heard.

Stevens was on licence after serving part of a sentence in a young offenders' institution, magistrates at Bury St Edmunds heard.

He admitted causing criminal damage and the magistrates ruled he had already served his sentence by being held overnight in police cells following his arrest.

In addition he was ordered to pay £50 compensation to Suffolk County Council for repairs.

The court heard he had breached the terms of his release from custody by going to Newmarket's Guineas shopping centre where he is banned.

He was subsequently returned to the young offenders' institution for a week.

His licence from the institution runs until July.

Kevin Lowson, prosecuting, said the damage to the glass was caused over the weekend of May 7 and 10. Stevens was traced by the police from blood he left on the glass.

Stevens told police he had punched walls at the same time and was having a "bad day" when he caused the damage.

Jeremy Kendall, defence solicitor, said Stevens had been "trying to damage himself".

Two days after the incident he was returned to the young offenders' institution, although the court which sent him back to custody was unaware of the criminal damage offence.

He said Stevens had now vowed to "turn over a new leaf" after becoming a father for the first time.

Two women assault girl, 13

A 13-YEAR-OLD girl was assaulted in the street by older females.

The victim suffered bruising after the attack in All Saints Road, Newmarket, just after 8pm on Wednesday, May 12.

The younger girl was with a group of friends when they were approached by a group of two young women and two young men.

The 13-year-old was bruised in the assault before she was able to run away.

One of the young women was around 20 years old, white with a tanned complexion and about 5ft 6in tall.

She was slim with long, dark red/brown hair in a bun and was wearing a pink hooded top and skinny jeans.

The woman with her was about the same age, around 5ft 5in tall, of medium build with blonde hair tied back.

She was wearing a long black cardigan and skinny jeans.

Both men were also around 20 years old. One was 6ft tall, slim with short brown hair and was wearing three-quarter length jeans.

Anyone with information should call Pc Beverley Culloden at Mildenhall Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Stylish way to raise cash

A SALE of designer clothes at discount prices raised £5,000 for a hospice organisation.

The money was raised at women's fashion shop Anne Furbank in Newmarket High Street when previous seasons' clothes were sold in aid of St Nicholas Hospice Care, based in Bury St Edmunds.

Abby Hunt, the hospice's corporate fund raiser, was presented with the cheque by staff and praised the fantastic efforts of all involved.

She said: "The fact that such an amazing amount was made is credit to everyone at Anne Furbank."

"We are delighted they chose to support St Nicholas Hospice Care in this way and we would like to thank everyone who helped make the event such a success."

Becky Furbank, managing director at the shop, said: "The hospice does fantastic work in Newmarket and the rest of West Suffolk and Thetford and we are delighted to have been able to help them in this way."

As well as having in-patient beds at the hospice, the charity also provides home support for people with terminal and serious illnesses.

Vandal attacks plants

A MAN was seen running off after plants and a fountain were damaged in a front garden.

Around £250 damage was caused in the incident in Houldsworth Terrace, Black Bear Lane, Newmarket.

The man ran off towards nearby Rowley Drive after being disturbed while causing the damage.

He was described as white, in his late 20s with short dark hair. He was wearing blue jeans and a black jacket.

Anyone with information about the incident, which happened at around 12.10am on Saturday, May 15, should call Pc Christopher Button at Mildenhall police on (01284) 774100 or Crime-stoppers on 0800 555 111.

On the same night a wooden fence, sign and gate were damaged in Fitzroy Street nearby causing £50 damage.

Planner urges delaying 1,200 homes decision

A DECISION on the controversial plans for 1,200 new homes is set to be put off until August.

Forest Heath district councillors are being recommended to delay the decision on the scheme by Lord Derby to develop 160 acres of his land at Hatchfield Farm, Newmarket.

The area has already been earmarked for development in the council's core strategy until 2031 despite a major campaign of opposition by the town's horse racing industry.

More than 300 letters of objection have been sent to the district council and Newmarket Town Council is also opposing the scheme.

A report to district councillors for the planning committee meeting on Wednesday warns that they should give clear reasons if they intend to refuse permission for the scheme.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

Dave Beighton, the planner writing the report, suggests that councillors should restrict any grounds for refusal to currently outstanding "technical matters" – which include road surveys and the effect of the scheme on the A142 Fordham Road and the A14 – and legal agreements to provide services for the residents of the new homes – and the rest of the town.

He recommends the decision is put off to allow more time to reach agreement over the road changes and new facilities.

The report says that the NHS wants more than £300,000 to pay for additional medical facilities for the increased population of the town.

Nearly £4 million is wanted for a new primary school, additional nursery school places and nursery school provision.

Suffolk County Council wants £200,000 towards new library facilities and £73,878 for improved waste services.

The district council wants £140,000 towards the cost of funding a community development officer and the police want a contribution for extra officers – possibly three police community support officers – and a drop-in facility.

Talks have also been held with Jockey Club Estates, which currently opposes the scheme, about possible improvement to horse crossings in the town to improve safety.

The Highways Agency and Suffolk County Council highways experts say they have yet to reach any conclusions about additional traffic whether proposed traffic lights at the junction of A14 and A142 will cope with the increase.

The report warns that a planning inspector has ruled that the district council's core strategy is "sound" and balances allowing "reasonable growth" while protecting the horse racing industry.

Council officer 'doing his job'

Mr Burnip told the meeting: "It disappoints me considerably to hear the on-going vilification and scurrilous accusation against an officer of the council who is doing his job."

"Some of the outcomes may not be popular, but to blame an individual who is doing his job is not acceptable."

He said it was elected councillors who took decisions and their views could not be over-ruled by an official.

Later in the meeting Mr Gosden stormed out after complaining about traffic congestion in the town which, he said, would only get worse if the Hatchfield development went ahead.

Police station hours and staff face cutbacks

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

CIVILIAN staff at police stations are set to lose their jobs as opening hours are cut.

Suffolk Police Authority has decided to reduce the opening times at police stations, including those at Newmarket, Mildenhall and Haverhill.

At Newmarket and Mildenhall the equivalent of one full time job will go with the number of civilian police station clerks reduced from three to two.

Front counter opening will be cut from the current 12 hours to eight hours Monday to Friday and between 9am and 5pm at weekends.

The changes are set to take effect by the end of this year and are due to result in savings of £200,000 a year for the county's force by 2013.

Across the county the equivalent of 6.5 full-time posts will go from a workforce of 41.4 "full-time equivalents".

Cllr Bill Burch, former mayor of Newmarket and a town councillor, said: "It's absolute nonsense. Police stations should be open 24 hours."

"What's most distressing to me is that Newmarket has become the 'village idiot' with everything moved to Mildenhall."

"Not so many years ago there were two police stations in Newmarket – one for Suffolk and one for Cambridgeshire."

Organisational changes in the Suffolk force which took effect earlier this year mean that police response teams now "sign on" at the start of their shifts in Mildenhall rather than Newmarket.

Colin Spence, chairman of the county's Police Authority, said: "The decision was not easy, but we are committed to ensuring the best possible service provided."

"It was agreed that the constabulary must continue to update the public on the implications of this project during its implementation ensuring that they are well informed throughout."

"At a time when public sector spending is to be cut, it is essential that we deploy our resources correctly, protecting our essential services whilst spending efficiently."

Couple released on bail

A MAN and a woman have been released on bail after being arrested by police investigating thefts from a holiday complex.

The pair were questioned about thefts from the Center Parcs Elveden Forest complex after Police Community Support Officer Suzanne Ashford, whose posting is partly funded by the complex, followed a man suspected of stealing a bicycle from the holiday village.

The police helicopter was called in and located a suspicious truck in the nearby forest and a man and woman were arrested.

The truck was seized and officers later searched a property in Brandon where 11 bikes, all suspected to have been stolen, were recovered.

Fly-tipper fined after he left 'calling card'

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

A FLY-TIPPER was caught when council investigators found a delivery note addressed to him among the rubbish he left at the road-side.

Dipak Saha had dumped a mattress and packaging for a television and a push chair in Thetford Road, Mildenhall.

He was traced when Forest Heath District Council officials found the delivery note for his former address, magistrates heard.

Saha, 35, of High Street, Mildenhall, admitted illegally dumping controlled waste. He was fined £100 and ordered to pay £100 council costs and £15 victim surcharge by magistrates at Bury St Edmunds.

Paul Weller, district council solicitor, told the court that the waste was discovered on February 2.

After the delivery note was discovered, council officers traced him to his new address.

He told council investigators that he had been under pressure from his landlord to move the rubbish out of his previous address. He said he had intended to take it to the council waste site – even though it was around 11pm on February 1. But he could not find the site and left the rubbish in a lay-by.

He later paid the council the £88.13 cost of clearing the rubbish.

Hotel 'will spoil town skyline'

A HOTEL currently being built will destroy a town's skyline, according to an opponent of the scheme.

Racehorse trainer John Gosden spoke out, at Newmarket's annual town meeting, against the 75-room Premier Inn which is under construction in the centre of the town.

He claimed people had been misled about the height of the building, which is being built at the junction of Fred Archer Way and Fordham Road.

"It will be one-and-a-half times the height of Waitrose on the opposite side of the road and will destroy the skyline of Newmarket," he said.

He told the meeting a traffic survey in support of the scheme was "self-serving" and did not take account of the effect on the busy horse crossing in Fordham Road.

But Nigel McCurdy, Forest Heath District Council's strategic

Work in progress: the site of the new Premier Inn which is currently being built.

director (services), said the scheme had been approved on appeal by a government inspector after district councillors had refused permission on traffic grounds.

"We knew it was going to be a four-storey building," he said and handed out artist's impressions of how the building will look.

Cllr Richard Fletcher said the town council had supported the plan on the grounds that additional hotel accommodation was needed to help boost the local economy.

"We felt it would give our High Street a much needed boost," he said. "We felt that any traffic increase in that area is likely to be negligible."

Horse racing worker 'stable' after bike accident

A POPULAR Newmarket horse racing worker was seriously injured while riding his racing bike.

Dave Goodwin, 58, a keen competitive cyclist, was in collision with a van in the village of Snailwell last Tuesday.

Emergency doctors and paramedics were flown to the scene in the East Anglian Air Ambulance and he was this week said to be in a stable condition in Addenbrooke's Hospital.

Mr Goodwin, of Paget Place, Newmarket, works for top trainer

Jeremy Nosedá and his racing career has included spells with Sir Michael Stoute and Henry Cecil. While working for Mr Cecil he was responsible for looking after two Derby winners – Slip Anchor in 1985 and Commander in Chief in 1993.

He was a joint winner of Stable Lad of the Year award, given by the Horserace Writers' and Photographers' Association in 2002.

He is a member of the Newmarket Cycling and Triathlon Club and is a regular competitor.

Pelargonium couple strike gold again

TOP flower growers Brian and Pearl Sulman received their fifth consecutive gold medal at the Chelsea Flower Show.

The Mildenhall-based pelargonium growers are displaying their blooms at the show for what is expected to be the last time as they are intending to sell their business.

Mr Sulman said: "When we left the show on Sunday evening the display looked good, but nothing is certain so it was lovely to see the gold medal on Tuesday morning."

"We want to maintain our standards and go out on a high. Nothing is final, but it's highly unlikely we will come back."

Mr and Mrs Sulman will be selling some of their stock plants at an open weekend at their nursery in Kingsway, Mildenhall, on June 5 and 6.

US personnel at memorial service

MORE than 1,000 people are expected to attend the annual memorial service at the American Military Cemetery at Madingley on Monday.

The US Defence attaché Rear Admiral Ronald Henderson will represent the American government. Cambridgeshire's Lord Lieutenant Hugh Dubery will represent the Queen.

Personnel from the Mildenhall US Air Force base will provide an honour guard for the occasion and around 100 wreaths will be raised from a range of organisations in the USA and Britain.

The cemetery contains the graves of more than 3,800 American troops killed in the Second World War.

The ceremony will take place at 11am.

Driver escapes car inferno

A DRIVER escaped injury when his car collided with road signs and caught fire last Wednesday night. The smash happened on the A14 eastbound carriageway at the junction with the A11 just east of Newmarket at about 11.35pm. Firefighters were called but the silver-coloured Volvo S60 car was destroyed.

The man driving the car was able to get out before the fire took hold. Police said no other vehicles were involved in the crash.

Why did officers support scheme?

Sir, With regard to the Red Lodge truckstop appeal being dismissed, no-one disputes the need for truckstops. But the importance of putting them in the right places is paramount. Not only has the inspector confirmed this in his reasoning, he also appears to have seen through the Upton smokescreen. Though there are several references in the inspector's report to errors and misleading uses of data collected and a failure, on the part of the appellant as well as Forest Heath officers, to correct both Suffolk and Cambridgeshire county councils' misunderstanding of parking numbers, he was generous enough to allow Upton's faulty surveys to be re-submitted. Even the draft unilateral undertaking to close the existing truckstop and cafe had to be revised.

In about one month, Red Lodge Parish Council's professional team unearthed these errors and deviations. How had Forest Heath's officers failed to see them when they had had the files for nearly two years? Not only have they failed the community they are paid to serve, they also failed Upton by giving him false hope based on faulty advice. They have cost Upton and the taxpayer dearly.

The two main issues were in the inspector's report were:

(i) effects of traffic and quality of life for residents and schoolchildren; (ii) effect of development on character and appearance of Red Lodge and surrounding countryside. There were many examples proving that the proposed truckstop would be far from a "like-for-like replacement" of the existing truckstop. It was clear, too, that the proposed truckstop, contrary to national policy, would have drawn lorries from the A14 "via local roads through bypassed communities to a destination in its own right".

On another matter contrary to policy, Red Lodge Parish Council's professionals pointed out that CO2 emissions would be increased. Why had Forest Heath District Council's officers missed (or dismissed) this? The inspector concluded that on issue (i) HGV movements via local roads through bypassed communities and becoming a destination in its own right is contrary to national policy, as is an increase in CO2 emissions; it would be harmful to quality of life, especially to noise and perception of danger; it would be contrary to Local Plan policy 6.12 (not convenient for A14, a primary route network road); and he concluded that on issue (ii) although it would cause only limited harm to character and appearance, it is nevertheless contrary to policy.

The inspector also noted that although the old truckstop will continue, it is highly likely eventually to close and for the site to be better used.

In the light of overwhelming objections from 10 parish councils, other bodies and many individuals, as well as the evidence itself, why did Forest Heath officers recommend this for approval? The application was clearly full of holes as well as a number of points being against national policy. It is a case, yet again, of serious misjudgement on the part of officers. Only dogged determination and an instinctive

Sort out basic issues first

Sir, To my disgust, I yet again find large and unsightly deposits of dog excrement on the pavements of Newmarket, outside my front gate, and to my dismay, within metres of a district council sign proudly declaring "Poop scoop area, penalty £500".

How can we expect or ask an organisation that is unable to police existing bylaws to try and implement more complex schemes? Schemes such as those of parking control measures which have been democratically thrown out once and are certainly not required on the street in which I live where I have trouble-free parking each evening. Sort out the current, basic and anti-social issues before moving onto new areas, which could be considered by some as just an easy revenue source.

Hunting must not return

Sir, Following the change of government a terrible shadow now hangs over the countryside. Pro blood sports organisations, supported by some of the most wealthy and influential landowners in the country, have thrown their full weight behind a Tory victory, their sole aim being the repeal of the hunting ban.

If the Act is repealed, it will see the return of fox and stag hunting and the horrors of hare coursing. It took decades of campaigning by thousands of ordinary compassionate people to expose the cruelty of blood sports and to bring about its abolition.

This Government will drag hunting from the cesspit of history and in doing so will condone cruelty in its vilest form, cruelty in the pursuit of "pleasure" simply to provide a day's entertainment.

Wealth, privilege and a breathtaking arrogance could once again see the killing of sentient creatures become a reality in our countryside. If it does the nation should hang its heads in shame.

On course to reduce waste

VOLUNTEERS are being offered a free course to spread the word about the benefits of making your own compost.

Cllr Lisa Chambers, who represents Newmarket and Red Lodge on the county council and is portfolio holder for environment and waste management, said: "Many people are unaware that more than a third of the contents of the average household bin can be composted. As well as creating great free fertiliser for the garden, home composting helps towards achieving the council's target of diverting as much waste from landfill as possible. This in turn helps to reduce greenhouse gas emissions."

The two day Master Composter Foundation Course will be at Lackford Lakes Nature Reserve, between Mildenhall and Bury St Edmunds, on Friday, June 4, and Saturday, June 5. Club and pub ban for four involved in fight

HIGH STREET in Newmarket is becoming a "no-go" area for law-abiding citizens when pubs and clubs empty out, according to a magistrate.

David Hooley was the chairman of the bench sentencing four men involved in a fight in which another clubber was kicked as he lay on the ground outside De Niro's nightclub.

All four defendants were banned from all pubs and clubs in Newmarket for the next year and ordered to do unpaid community work.

Mr Hooley said: "The general public in Newmarket is absolutely fed up with this sort of behaviour when the clubs turn out. It is becoming a sort of no-go area for law-abiding members of the public."

Before Bury magistrates court were Jordan Avis, 19, of Laxton Way, Cambridge, Jason Cadman, 18, of Osler Holt, Huntingdon, and Oliver Smith, 19, of Tower Close, Cottenham, who all admitted affray charges. Lewis Shepherd, 19, of Coleridge Road, Cambridge, admitted a charge of using threatening words and behaviour.

Magistrates were shown CCTV footage which showed the three men who admitted affray kicking Chris Matthews as he was on the ground.

Shepherd was seen running towards one of the other group in a threatening way. The footage also showed one of the other group punching Cadman in the face and being arrested himself.

Kevin Lowson, prosecuting, said the charges related to an incident in January at around 1am, when the four defendants were involved in a disturbance with four other men, who are due to appear in court on June 2.

An earlier dispute inside the club continued when the two groups met outside.

Jeremy Kendall, for Avis and Shepherd, said they had acted in misguided loyalty to a friend who had been injured inside the club and were ashamed of their "appalling behaviour".

He said: "After the general melee, which was quite vicious, they calmed down and when told by police to sit on the bench, they did. It was as if after that moment of madness they realised that they were in trouble."

Declan Gallagher, for Smith, who is about to start studying for a degree in marine biology, said he acted after his friend had received injuries which needed stitches to his mouth.

He said: "There was provocation and he was fighting with people who were involved in a conflict, not indiscriminately hitting out at people. No members of the public were involved and fortunately no-one was seriously hurt."

Kevin Warbours, for Cadman, said all four were of previous good character and accepted that they should not have taken the law into their own hands.

Praise for waste

AN innovative approach to managing waste has earned Cambridgeshire County Council praise at a national awards ceremony.

The council was highly commended at the Public Private Finance Awards for its work with waste management company Donarbon.

The commendation recognised the council's £730 million waste private finance initiative (PFI), which was designed to help meet challenging recycling targets.

It includes building major waste management facilities, such as the mechanical biological treatment plant at Waterbeach, and running the council's nine recycling centres.

Cllr Tony Orgee, lead member for economy and the environment, said: "To have been shortlisted, let alone highly commended, is a major achievement for Cambridgeshire in the face of stiff competition from bigger authorities such as Manchester."

Find out about volunteering

MORE volunteers are being sought to help projects and charities.

The Volunteer Centre for Forest Heath, based in Newmarket, is supporting National Volunteers Week, from Tuesday until June 7.

The organisation will have a stall in Newmarket's Guineas shopping centre on Tuesday and at Mildenhall market on Friday, June 4, where people with time on their hands can find out about the volunteering.

A coffee afternoon is also being held at the Volunteer Centre in The Old Courts, All Saints Road, Newmarket, on Friday, June 4.

Jane Carter, from the centre, said: "Volunteering is a great CV builder as well as being a refresher of both confidence and skills from the past."

For more information contact the centre (01638) 608048.

Council's new director

A SENIOR executive has been appointed at Cambridgeshire County Council.

John Onslow will take over as acting executive director for the environment at the council's environment services following the retirement of Brian Smith.

He joins from Cambridgeshire Horizons where, as director for development and deputy chief executive, he led on major growth and regeneration projects.

Guides win lottery funding for camp of the century

GUIDES from across the region will be able to put their camping skills to the test thanks to a grant from the Big Lottery Fund.

A team of volunteer leaders are now putting the finishing touches to Look 2010, Girlguiding Cambridgeshire East's Centenary Camp at Stow-cum-Quy.

More than 250 Guides will descend on Quy Park for a week of adventure in August.

A huge spider mountain will be installed at the park so the girls can climb to their hearts' content.

The £10,000 grant will also fund activities at Mepal Outdoor Centre such as kayaking, climbing and archery, orienteering at Milton Country Park and drumming at Bottisham.

Brownies and Rainbows haven't been left out as they have been invited to make day visits and will be able to take part in activities.

Camp Leader Chris Turnbull, said: "Guide camp is an experience that you never forget."

"It is even more important in this age that girls have the opportunity to sleep in a tent, work as a team, live without electronic gadgets for a week and have fun together.

"In our centenary year we are proud that Guiding is giving girls ground-breaking opportunities, although of course this is nothing new as we always have and always will put girls in the lead."

Last post after 26 years in the office

BY CHRIS HAVERGAL

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

ONE half of the husband-and-wife team which has handled a village's mail for 26 years has retired.

Sub-postmistress Valerie Clarke, 62, cashed up at Lode Post Office for the last time last Thursday but her husband Stephen, 58, will still deliver the letters and parcels.

This will keep the family's links with the service running towards an eighth decade, as Stephen's parents Nobby and Muriel Clarke ran the office for more than 30 years before they handed over.

Jez and Corinne Arnold will take over the running of the post office.

Valerie became the sub-postmistress in 1984, when her husband had already been delivering the mail for five years.

She told the Weekly News: "I won't be sad to not have to do the work but I will miss the customers – they are more like friends. I'm very grateful for the support and I'm sure I'll still see lots of them for coffee."

"I'm also really pleased the village will retain its post office and I wish Jez and Corinne well."

"I'm sure the village will support them because, with so many post offices closing, we are lucky to keep it."

Valerie took on the post office from her in-laws after bringing up her children Lloyd, now 35, and Howard, 31.

In her career she saw the introduction of computers transform the way pensions and other key services operate.

Stephen and Valerie will now move out of the post office, where they have lived for 26 years, and take on the bungalow in Lode they built in 1982.

In July, Lloyd will attempt to swim the Channel to raise cash for the Magpas emergency medical charity, while Howard's partner Katie is expecting her first child – and Valerie's first grandchild – in October.

Valerie said: "We've got a very busy year ahead. There's lots to look forward to and celebrate."

Village post office closes temporarily while hall is rebuilt

A VILLAGE post office has closed temporarily while the village hall is being rebuilt.

The post office in Dalham, where sessions were held in the hall once a week on Wednesday afternoons, will re-open when the new hall is completed.

A Post Office spokesman said: "We are sorry for the inconvenience caused to our customers, but the safety of our customers is of paramount importance to us. Therefore, to allow for the redevelopment to take place it has been necessary for the service to close temporarily."

"We estimate that the work will take several months to complete."

Roger Dicker, who runs Kentford post office and stores and has been running the Dalham service, said he would be willing to pick up pensioners from Dalham and take them to Kentford to get their pensions, provided he was given enough prior notice.

He has been running the Dalham service since the previous village post office closed with the retirement of the long-serving postmistress Patricia Catt.

The village post office closed in 2000 and Mr Dicker, who is also a district councillor, set up a weekly service in 2002.

Former jockey damaged car after argument

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

A FORMER jockey and racehorse trainer threw stereo speakers at a car after a row over the sale of horses.

Russell Price, 42, caused nearly £900 damage to the car in the incident at his former stables in Hamilton Road, Newmarket, magistrates heard.

He damaged the Audi estate car owned by his former assistant Jill O'Neill, who was about to take over his yard after he faced cash problems.

Price, of Lisburn Road, Newmarket, admitted causing criminal damage and was made the subject of a community order with six months supervision by a probation officer.

He was also ordered to pay £882.43 compensation and £75 costs by magistrates at Bury St Edmunds.

Kevin Lowson, prosecuting, said the incident happened on June 18 last year after Price had been abusive to Miss O'Neill while she was working in a barn.

He told her to "get out" but after Price left the barn she heard banging and found that her car had been dented and a side window had been smashed.

Price later told police he had been drunk and had picked up the speakers which were standing in the yard and threw them at the car.

Lyndon Davies, defence solicitor, said Price had been forced to sell the stables at a loss to Miss O'Neill. He believed she had reneged on a deal over the sale of horses.

Mr Davies said Price had been battling a drink problem and had not had a drink for year until the stress of having to sell his business drove him to have a drink on the day of the incident.

The court heard he had previously been convicted of drink-driving and causing criminal damage to a debt-collector's car.

Mr Davies said Price was now hoping to resume his career as a jockey and was waiting for medical clearance as well as Jockey Club approval after recovering from a badly broken leg when a horse fell on him.

A probation officer told the court that Price was continuing to tackle his alcohol problems by contact with Joe Carter, the racing industry substance abuse adviser, and Alcoholics Anonymous.

Tips for young creatives

CHILDREN'S author and illustrator Gillian McClure gave village school pupils tips on producing their own book.

The Cambridge-based illustrator spent the day with youngsters at Burrough Green Primary School, working with them on background and character drawings.

The school is involved in a business and enterprise project with Linton Village College which has included the formation of a company called Burrough Books.

Pupils from Years 5 and 6 are producing an E-book with Cambridge University Press and will have a paper book produced by Burwell Community Print Centre. The picture book will be aimed at reception children.

Prize-winning author Tony Mitton, who also lives in Cambridge, had previously given the youngsters some ideas about text for the book.

Money raised from the book will help buy new books for the library at the school, which is currently being extended in a £3 million scheme.

A previous enterprise project by the school resulted in £360 being raised for the Teenage Cancer Trust by producing teddy bears, mugs and mouse mats.

Dogs dive in to help canine pals with sponsorship for water therapy

DOGS will take part in a sponsored swim to raise money for equipment to help their canine chums.

Six dogs are due to complete a 12-hour sponsored swimathon in the hydrotherapy pool at the Animal Health Trust's headquarters near Newmarket.

Members of the trust's small animal hydrotherapy unit will be helping their four-legged friends to raise £5,000 towards a water treadmill.

The treadmill will help provide therapy for dogs and cats that suffer joint pain and stiffness as well as a range of other painful conditions.

Jo Handley-Howard, head of hydrotherapy at the AHT, said: "Ten minutes swimming in the pool is the equivalent of 40 minutes exercise on land so this is quite an undertaking – not just for the dogs, but for us humans too."

"We swim all types of dogs in our hydrotherapy pool – from Jack Russells to Great Danes and St Bernards. Many of these have been referred to us in their golden years suffering with arthritis and muscle wastage.

"A new water treadmill will complement the existing pool and mean we can help many more dogs to be pain-free."

The doggy-paddlers, which range in size from Labradors to a Jack Russell, will be undertaking the challenge on Monday, June 21, and are looking for sponsors to support them.

They will be doing the swim in the 10ft long pool, which has been in use at the trust's small animals centre since 2005, with their owners, who are staff at the trust.

The swimming dogs are Alfie, Bailey, Molly, Skye, Julie and Barley.

'Caring teenage daughter is my rock and my best friend'

AS her teenager daughter walks through the door, back from a day at school, Nicky Littlechild's face lights up.

"I couldn't be more proud of Sophie," she smiles. "She's loving, caring, incredibly supportive; she's my rock – and my best friend, to be honest."

Like most girls her age, Sophie, 16, is in the middle of studying for her GCSEs; her ambition is to join the Navy. When she's not studying, she loves playing sport, going shopping, chilling out with friends... But that's where the similarities with most teenagers end. Sophie is a young carer – and she spends hours of every day looking after her younger brothers, Daniel and Harry.

Both boys suffer from Fragile X; a genetic syndrome, it causes a range of physical and intellectual limitations. Aged 12 and 7, Daniel and Harry still behave like toddlers: they wear nappies, need bathing and changing and are constantly on the go – Harry has never slept through the night.

BY ALICE RYAN

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

"It is hard sometimes," admits Sophie, who comes from Cambourne. "They can be quite aggressive, which is difficult, and looking after them is very tiring; when you're with them it's full-on. But then they'll do or say something sweet or funny which makes up for it all."

Sophie's amazing attitude has just won her a nomination for the Spicers Young People of the Year awards, known as the Yoypeys. Launched in Cambridgeshire five years ago, the awards are designed to recognise young people who give to others.

The brainchild of former national newspaper journalist Tony Gearing, who lives in Royston, the awards aim to counter some of the bad press youngsters receive; new Prime Minister David Cameron hailed the Yoypeys as "a flourishing social enterprise able to provide recognition for inspirational young people".

"Sophie absolutely deserves to win an award," says Nicky. "She's brilliant with the boys and she's amazingly supportive to me and Matt, my husband. I don't know what we'd have done without her."

Daniel was the first to be diagnosed with Fragile X. Sophie and her older brother Rhys, now 19, were, remembers their mum, thrilled to have a little brother. "From the moment he was born he was spoiled by his big brother and sister," says Nicky. "But then, when he was about six months old, my mother said she thought he might have autism: he was still totally floppy, like a newborn really."

When Daniel was 18 months old, doctors decided to run a series of blood tests. "He wasn't developing at a normal rate," explains Nicky. "They said the tests would eliminate certain things – like Fragile X. I'd never heard of it, but they said: 'Don't worry, it won't be that.'"

"Six weeks later, the results came back. I can still remember the doctor saying: 'I'm sorry – it is Fragile X Syndrome.' I burst into tears straight away; the first thing I asked was: 'Is he going to die?'"

As Nicky and Matt discovered, Fragile X is a condition caused by an inherited chromosomal abnormality. It is not life-limiting, but the resulting symptoms range widely in severity – and can come hand in hand with other disorders, like autism, which Daniel has been diagnosed with, and Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), which affects Harry.

More blood tests showed that Nicky is a carrier of Fragile X; she inherited it from her father. "My dad had only just died when Daniel was diagnosed," she remembers. "He'd suffered a brain haemorrhage at 40 and had been ill for a long time. It was an awful time for us," continues Nicky, 39. "I felt – sometimes I still feel – incredibly guilty that I was carrying the condition that has caused my children harm."

As a carrier of Fragile X, medics told Nicky she too might have some symptoms, albeit far milder than Daniel's. "I'd always really struggled with maths, and they said that was connected," she explains.

Thanks to a specialist support worker, the whole family threw themselves into helping Daniel: as well as learning about play therapy, they adopted new communication techniques – including the sign language Makaton.

Demonstrating a few simple signs, Nicky explains that Daniel was very slow to speak: he was three when he learned his first few words. Even though Sophie was only little herself, she too learned Makaton to help.

Deciding they would like another baby, but fearful it might also inherit Fragile X, Nicky and Matt requested IVF treatment. But, as a mother-of-three already, doctors said Nicky didn't qualify.

"But then, out of the blue, I fell pregnant. We were told we could have a test for Fragile X at 10 weeks but, when we went, the baby was in the wrong place. After that my husband and I decided we wouldn't be able to go ahead with a termination anyway, that whatever was meant to be was meant to be."

When Harry was born, the whole family was over the moon. "Sophie was like a little mother," laughs Nicky. "I used to wake up in the morning and find her sitting on my bed cuddling him. They've always had a very special relationship; she idolises him. Nowadays he likes playing rough and tumble and she'll always make time to play with him. And she's always teaching him things: if you ask him: 'Who's the best?' he says: 'Sis is! – it's all great for his communication skills and development.'"

As a tiny baby, Harry seemed completely normal. "The doctors decided to delay testing for Fragile X until he was six months old," adds Nicky.

"They were worried it might affect bonding. But he didn't seem to have any of the symptoms – so when they said he had tested positive it was a real shock."

As the boys have grown up, life for the whole Littlechild family has been challenging. "Harry is just on the go all the time," explains Nicky. "We've had seven years of sleepless nights: he'll wake up at 1am, 2am, 3am and be jumping around all over the place. He and Daniel are both at Samuel Pepys School and Harry has one-to-one support; the support workers used to take it in half-hour shifts, because he's just so tiring."

"They're like toddlers: someone has to be with them all the time; if one of them goes out into the garden, they have to be accompanied – Harry can scale the 6ft fence. Neither of them have any sense of danger."

"We've made our home totally safe for them, but going away on holiday is a nightmare. We have tried it a couple of times but Harry escapes. And Christmas is always difficult. I love Christmas but I'm trying not to look forward to it this year: we can't visit family or anything, because it's just too much for the boys."

"I feel guilty about the fact that Daniel and Harry have to be our priority all the time; Rhys and Sophie have had a very loving upbringing, but it hasn't been a normal one."

At 12, Daniel is becoming more aggressive. Nicky says he lashes out and hits when he becomes frustrated or excited. "We're lucky that both the boys are very loving, there's been no problem with bonding," she adds. "But it's very tough. And they'll always need care; it's just the way it is."

Both she and Matt, 40, have, Nicky admits, struggled to cope at times. "Matt had a full-time job and was a retained fire fighter, but he had to give up work," she says. "And we're both on tablets to help us cope. I couldn't cope without my husband to be honest: we're very much a team. And Sophie is just amazing. She's my best friend – I'll really miss her when she joins the Navy. And she's also a third pair of hands; we'll really miss her help with the boys."

Sophie was tested for Fragile X at the age of 12, because Nicky suspected she was showing symptoms – struggling with maths. The tests revealed she too is a carrier. "I'm so proud of the way she's coped," adds Nicky. "She's doing really well at school."

About to start her GCSE exams, Sophie admits it can be hard to study at home – unless the boys are in bed.

"A lot of things that other people take for granted seem really special to us," she adds. "Things like going out for a meal together, or just spending some quiet time at home as a family, when the boys have respite care."

"It's really funny because I know a lot of people my age would hate spending time with their parents, but I always really look forward to it. We're really close."

Sophie says she wants to join the Navy "to make something of myself. I think it would be a great thing to look back on, having travelled the world."

Recommended for a Yopey by her teachers, Sophie stands to win a £1,000 prize – £500 to keep and £500 to give to charity. There will also be a second prize of £500, third of £250 and several runners-up prizes. The awards, to be announced in July, are sponsored by Spicers, Europe's leading wholesaler of office products, along with the county's police, Cambridge Building Society and Cambridge University Press, among others.

■ Do you know an inspirational young person or group of young people who deserve to be recognised? The Spicers Cambridgeshire Young People of the Year awards are open to youngsters aged 10 to 25 who live, work or study in the county. To make a nomination, or find out more, visit www.yopey.org

Sale? What's that then?

At You're Furnished, we don't have sales. There's no need. Our prices are consistently low all year round – up to half what you'd pay for the same furniture in high street stores. And always lower than their sale prices. Both of our warehouses have a huge range of leather and fabric sofas as well as dining and bedroom furniture in a huge variety of wood finishes. Selling high volumes and being located in modest buildings means huge cost savings for our customers.

Which is why, like us, they don't bother with sales.

dine out for £10

IT'S back! Our hugely popular Dine Out for £10 promotion has returned, in association with our sister paper, the Cambridge News.

The offer gives you the chance to enjoy great value meals out at the 48 pubs and restaurants listed below.

Whether you fancy a great steak, a fabulous fish dish or a vegetarian feast, there will be something for you.

HOW TO TAKE UP THE OFFER

1 Collect three tokens – of which two MUST be from those published regularly in the Cambridge News. The third can also be from the News, or taken from this newspaper. Alternatively, visit the 'Dining Out' section of Cambridge News Online at www.cambridge-news.co.uk to print off a bonus token. You'll find a full guide to the venues taking part, including the times and days of the week when the offer is valid, on our website.

2 Phone to book a place at your chosen restaurant, stating that you wish to take advantage of the 'Dine Out for £10' offer. Please note, the venues are running the offer at certain times and days of the week.

3 Present your tokens as you order your food. Three tokens entitle two people to dine for £10 EACH on the special Cambridge News menus – excluding drinks. If more than two people are dining you'll need more tokens: six for 3-4 people, nine for 5-6 people etc.

TERMS & CONDITIONS

Offer is subject to availability. Offer runs until May 30. Those failing to present the correct number of tokens will not be entitled to use the offer. Issues concerning food or service should be taken up with the venue concerned.

Drink-driver came to a dead end

A SUSPECTED drink-driver sped off when spoken to by the police – into a dead-end street.

Farai Kanoerera was stopped when he reached the end of Hammond Close, Newmarket, and found there was nowhere to go, magistrates heard.

Kanoerera, 31, an aircraft engineering student at Marshall Aerospace, was more than twice the legal drink-drive limit. He gave a breath-test reading of 72 micrograms in 100 millilitres of breath. The legal limit is 35 mcg.

Kanoerera, of Anstey Way, Trumpington, was given a three-year driving ban after magistrates at Bury St Edmunds heard it was his second drink-drive offence in 10 years.

He was also fined £200 and ordered to pay £75 prosecution costs and a £15 victim surcharge.

Kevin Lowson, prosecuting, said police on patrol in Exning Road, Newmarket, at 3.20am on Saturday May 8, spotted Kanoerera's Ford Mondeo making a right turn into Hammond Close. Because his driving appeared hesitant, they pulled up next to him and asked him where he was going.

He said he was going to Studlands Park and the officers told he was taking the wrong turning.

But he drove around the police car and sped into Hammond Close, only to come to a halt at the end.

Kanoerera told the court: "It was quite unfortunate because my friend who was going to drive back had been drinking as well."

"We wanted to park somewhere isolated to sleep it off."

Man punched

A MAN needed hospital treatment after he was punched in the mouth in an unprovoked attack. The incident happened in Bury Road, Newmarket, between 6.30pm and 7pm on Monday when the man was approached by two white men.

The victim was taken to West Suffolk Hospital, Bury St Edmunds, for treatment to cuts and swelling.

Anyone with information about the incident should call Pc Nicholas Sanders at Mildenhall Police on (01284) 774100 or Crime-stoppers on 0800 555 111.

Laundry raid

A BURGLAR stole cash from drinks machines at a laundry.

The thief got into the Cannon Hygiene laundry in Exeter Road, Newmarket, by forcing a window before damaging the machines to get the cash.

The burglary happened between 2.30pm on Saturday and 5.30am on Monday. Call Pc Verdun Baptist at Mildenhall Police on (01284) 774100 if you can help.

Drinking ban rejected by magistrates

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

A FIRST bid by a council and the police to obtain drinking banning orders failed.

Magistrates refused to grant an order against a man involved in a fight in a pub. Four other people facing orders did not appear in court.

The banning orders can prevent people from going to pubs, clubs and even supermarkets which have off-licences.

But Forest Heath District Council's application, jointly with Suffolk police, for an order against Dylan Houghton, 29, was rejected by magistrates at Bury St Edmunds.

Paul Weller, council solicitor, told the court a ban was being sought to keep Houghton, of Carter Street, Fordham, out of pubs and nightclubs in Newmarket for up to two years. He said the application followed a fight in the grounds of The Bull pub in Newmarket High Street on February 14.

A member of the pub staff saw Houghton standing over a man on the ground and punching him in the face. Houghton did not stop even when staff tried to pull him off.

Mr Weller said the victim, Ian Furze, suffered a hairline fracture to the side of his jaw, a broken nose and fracture around his eye sockets.

But Houghton told the court he had reacted when the other man said he had a knife and would cut him.

"He threw a punch at me and cut my nose open," said Houghton. "I was highly upset."

He said he was still on bail while the police continued to investigate the incident and had not been charged with any offences.

Magistrate Alan Humphreys said: "In our view, it would be disproportionate to impose a drinking banning order."

New chairman to raise awareness

A NEW chairman has been appointed at East Cambridgeshire District Council (ECDC).

Cllr Anthea Davidson, who represents the ward of Dullingham Villages, will take up the role after being proposed by council leader Fred Brown and seconded by Cllr Ron Bradney.

Cllr Peter Cresswell, who has been chairman of the authority for the past two years, wished her well in the position at the annual council meeting on Tuesday.

Speaking to the Weekly News, Cllr Davidson said the chairman's charity would be the East Anglian Air Ambulance.

She said she wants to raise the public's awareness about what ECDC does.

Honoured: Cllr Anthea Davidson

Cllr Davidson said: "I am certainly looking forward to my new role and feel honoured to have been proposed."

"I want to use my time as chairman to raise public awareness about what it is the council does. I also want to get more people working with the council to make the community an even better place to be.

"This council is a small, yet great one and I believe we have a great team in place to face any challenges."

"Peter and his wife, Roslyn, have been incredible ambassadors and really have done us proud."

Cllr Cresswell, who represents Cheveley, described his time as council chairman as "a great privilege". He said: "I'm certainly going to miss being chairman and it has been a truly rewarding two years. I am proud to have been elected and it has been a great privilege to play such a key role in the local community."

Enjoy happy hour with Al's Pub Landlord

PREPARE for some "bootiful" comedy moments as brash comic Al Murray brings his Pub Landlord persona to Cambridge for not one, but two dates.

Voted number 16 on Channel 4's 100 greatest stand-ups and listed in The Observer as one of the 50 funniest acts in British comedy, Murray has become one of the most celebrated acts of recent years.

He has toured with the likes of Harry Hill and Frank Skinner and won a British Comedy Award for his ITV chat show Al Murray's Happy Hour.

Murray's live shows are notoriously chatty and not for the shy or the faint-hearted. Front rows beware – the fearless sexist/xenophobe will surely be taking no prisoners in this latest show, which sees the Oxford graduate grace his rival city – signalling a spot of trouble brewing already.

Murray performed with the Oxford Revue while he studied history at St Edmund Hall. Lets hope none of the Footlights gang are in the audience on Saturday . . .

The Pub Landlord character first appeared in 1994 when Murray was the tour support act for Harry Hill and subsequently featured in a short film, Pub

Fiction in 1995.

Murray's theatre show with the character, My Gaff, My Rules, was short-listed for an Laurence Olivier Award in 2002 and he has also appeared in character as the central focus of the television series Time Gentlemen Please, as well as a number of other television appearances, including the An Audience with . . . series.

Subsequent theatre tours, A Glass of White Wine for the Lady and Giving it Both Barrels also ran to critical acclaim.

As well as a sold-out stint at The Junction in Cambridge, Murray will be supporting the Imperial War Museum's new Historic Duxford project with a special fundraising gig at Duxford on Saturday afternoon.

Tickets for this exclusive one-hour gig will be strictly limited to 180 and are available on a first-come first-served basis. Every penny raised will go towards the new Historic Duxford project, which sets out to tell the story of RAF Duxford and the vital role played by the inspiring men and women who served from this historic airfield.

■ Al Murray: The Pub Landlord, Imperial War Museum, Duxford, Saturday at 3pm. Tickets £35 from www.duxford.iwm.org.uk

Global movement

THE Geoff Bailey Dancers will be taking audiences on a global journey in search of contemporary and classical theatre and dance in a brand new show.

Global is set to tunes old, new and obscure, and promises to be a memorable journey of dancing delights. The Geoff Bailey Dancers are a local group and believe that whoever you are, if you want to dance, you can. The dancers come from all sorts of different backgrounds and comprise all shapes, sizes, ages and levels of experience.

The group has been entertaining audiences since the 1980s, when most of the youth of Willingham took to the boards at the local social club. Recent adventures have seen the dancers busking in the streets for Cancer Research UK and performing in local festivals.

Global is on at Mumford Theatre, Cambridge, tomorrow and Saturday at 7.30pm. Tickets cost £7.50 (£5 concessions). Contact 0845 196 2320 / www.mumfordtheatre.co.uk

Keane on forests

PIANO rockers Keane will take a musical walk through the woods next month. Keane have had three consecutive number one albums and collected a truck load of Brit, Grammy and Ivor Novello awards. Their collection of hits, including Everybody's Changing, Is It Any Wonder?, Crystal Ball, Somewhere Only We Know and Spiralling, has secured Keane's place as one of Britain's best-loved bands.

As well as selling an impressive 10 million albums, the band's live reputation is marked by their huge sold out arena tours and critical acclaim.

Keane will be performing at Thetford Forest, near Brandon, on Thursday, June 10, as part of the Forestry Commission's Live Music summer series.

Tickets are £32. Phone (01842) 814612 or go to www.forestry.gov.uk/music. Money generated by ticket sales is spent directly on the nation's woodlands, benefiting everything from butterflies to mountain bikers.

Cold War manoeuvres in staged Chess match

BY JENNIFER SHELTON

FOLLOWING last year's sell-out production of Sweeney Todd, Cambridge's award-winning Festival Players return this summer with their 2010 production of Chess.

Festival Players are well known for their high quality musical productions, and Chess promises to be no exception.

Director Suzanne Emerson, who also directed the society's award-winning production of The Scarlet Pimpernel in 2008, is relishing the prospect of staging the show.

She said: "Chess provides a fantastic opportunity to experiment with the role of the media in public events. Using cameras on stage that feed live monitors, the audience can both watch the show as a normal stageplay and see the events through the eyes of the media."

With music by ABBA duo Benny Andersson and Björn Ulvaeus and lyrics by Tim Rice, Chess is an exciting, rock-style musical that follows an international chess championship between American Freddie Trumper and Russian Anatoly Sergievsky.

Set at the height of the Cold War, both the US and Russia are desperate to win the tournament for propaganda purposes. However, when Freddie's manager and former lover, Florence, falls in love with Anatoly, there begins an intricate game of political intrigue, with both characters being used as pawns as their governments try to outmanoeuvre each other in their contest for political supremacy.

Chess features a host of memorable songs including One Night in Bangkok, Pity the Child, Anthem and, of course, I Know Him So Well, the massive number one hit for Elaine Page and Barbara Dickson in the 1980s.

The Festival Players' last two productions sold out quickly, so book early to avoid disappointment.

■ Chess, ADC Theatre, June 1-5. To book tickets, visit www.adctheatre.com or phone (01223) 300085.

Your move: Festival Players get ready for Chess, which takes to the stage from Tuesday at Cambridge's ADC Theatre.

Scottish folk star's club gig

FOLK favourite Brian McNeill heads the line up at the Cambridge Folk Club's next session tomorrow night.

This year, McNeill celebrates the 40th year of a career that has established him as one of the most acclaimed forces in Scottish music.

Brian has been described as "Scotland's most meaningful contemporary songwriter" by The Scotsman. Add to that his work and influence as performer, composer, producer, teacher, musical director, band leader, novelist and interpreter of Scotland's past, present and future and you have a man who has never stood still.

He has performed around the globe, both as a soloist and with some of the era's most influential bands, including Battlefield Band, which he founded in 1969, and Clan Alba.

McNeill plays fiddle, octave fiddle, guitar, mandocello, bouzouki, viola, mandolin, cittern, concertina, bass and hurdy gurdy.

Support for the gig, at the Golden Hind, Cambridge, comes from Adam Brown and Alan MacLeod.

Adam and Alan have taken well known Irish tunes and stamped their own vibrant 21st century personalities on easily recognised favourites from the Celtic tradition.

Entry is £12 (door), £11 (advance), £10 (members). Go to www.cambridgefolkclub.org or phone (01638) 603986.

The big film

PRINCE OF PERSIA: THE SANDS OF TIME (12A, 115 mins) Action. Jake Gyllenhaal, Gemma Arterton, Sir Ben Kingsley, Alfred Molina, Toby Kebbell, Richard Coyle, Ronald Pickup. Director: Mike Newell

INSPIRED by best-selling video games series Prince Of Persia: The Sands Of Time is a rollicking escapade which marries gorgeous Moroccan locations with state-of-the-art visual effects.

The storyline of Mike Newell's big budget adventure incorporates a romantic subplot to appeal to female audiences who might otherwise give this testosterone-heavy romp a wide berth. The casting of a buffed up Jake Gyllenhaal in the lead role will also prove a draw as the Oscar-nominated star of Brokeback Mountain casts aside his indie credentials to throw himself into the melee of this mindless popcorn fodder.

Physically, he is more than a match for any protracted fight sequence in Boaz Yakin, Doug Miro and Carlo Bernard's predictable script and he nails the British accent of his gung-ho hero. However, there's no emotional content and the flirtation with ballys co-star Gemma Arterton remains suitably chaste.

A brief prologue establishes the lineage of King Sharaman (Pickup) with a visit to a Persian marketplace, where the monarch picks a street urchin called Dastan to become his surrogate son. Fifteen years later, rugged Dastan (Gyllenhaal) joins his brothers Tus (Coyle) and Garsiv (Kebbell) as they head for a fortress controlled by Princess Tamina (Arterton), which is rumoured to be the source of weapons for the King's enemies. During the assault on the city defences, Dastan unwittingly acquires a mythical dagger – a powerful gift from the Gods which allows the holder to reverse the flow of time. He is then framed for the murder of his beloved father and forced to flee for his life with Tamina in tow. Spurred on by their nefarious uncle Nizam (Kingsley), Tus and jealous sibling Garsiv vow to slay Dastan in revenge for their father's murder. Meanwhile, the outlaws encounter ostrich racing supremo Amar (Molina) and realise that the only way to unmask the real killer is to manipulate the dagger and turn back time.

Keep your cool in the garden after late frosts

As Chelsea exhibitors struggle to bring their prize plants to perfection for the flower show later this month because of the late cold snap, domestic gardeners will also be suffering the effects of the coldest May in 17 years.

Many seedlings will be struggling to survive, even in cold frames, and some tender plants which have been put out too early will end up being consigned to the compost bin.

Temperatures recently fell to minus 5C (23F) in Redesdale, Northumberland, and minus 4C (24.8F) in Chesham, Buckinghamshire, while the lowest recorded temperature in the cold snap was minus 6C (21.2F) at Altnaharra, in the Scottish Highlands.

Many plants in unheated greenhouses, such as tender geraniums and fuchsias, will have succumbed to the late frosts, says Matthew Wilson, presenter of Channel 4 gardening series The Landscape Man.

by Hannah Stephenson

"The big problem for the domestic gardener is if you have an unheated greenhouse which has big fluctuations in temperature, it's a nightmare for plants.

"Bright sunshine during the day will warm it up but then at night the temperature plummets, which will disrupt plant growth."

He advises gardeners to install a heater in a greenhouse temporarily and leave protection such as bubblewrap on the glass, making sure you are opening the vents during the day so there is less fluctuation.

For those who still have seed trays on their windowsills indoors, it may be worth leaving pricking out a bit longer, until the weather has warmed up a bit.

Tender veg such as tomatoes, green beans and courgettes need to remain indoors until the end of the month, or early next month if the cold snap continues, as they are extremely susceptible to frost.

If your veg are outgrowing their plug plant pots, simply transplant them into larger pots until it is safe to plant them outside.

Warm the soil where you are sowing seeds with sheets of clear plastic to help them along.

For those who have lost a lot of their summer bedding to the frost, it's worth direct sowing hardy annuals outdoors. There's a huge variety of cornfield annuals including mixtures of poppies, cornflowers and other meadow varieties which will provide you with plenty of colour outdoors.

Keep direct sowing outdoors successionally, one batch in mid-May and another in early June, to extend the flowering season. Many seed mixtures go from seedlings to flowers in eight to 10 weeks.

The coldest winter for 30 years means that many established perennials will take longer to get going again, but be patient because they will come back.

Also, seeds which you have planted in the soil outside will take longer to germinate.

Wilson says: "The frosts haven't been particularly deep so it won't have been cold enough to damage seeds in the ground. Seeds which haven't germinated are probably going to be okay but will come through later than usual.

"The good news is it's not so late that more seeds can't be sown. Just sow another batch. Successional sowing will prolong the flowering season."

Seedlings which have already been transplanted into the garden may survive if there's reasonable cover in cold frames or under horticultural fleece, but you may lose some. If the seedlings are large enough, you can pinch out the damaged growth and they may still survive.

Shrubs of borderline hardiness which have survived previous mild winters may have been damaged this year. Plants such as Choisya ternata, Pittosporum tobira, lemon Caution: seedlings growing on windowsills indoors may have to wait a little longer before they are planted outdoors.

verbena, Chilean glory flower and wisteria may suffer but they may not have died.

Wilson advises: "With shrubs such as choisya, prune out the damaged wood after flowering and keep your fingers crossed that it grows back."

If you think a shrub has died, scratch the bark away from the stem at the base and you should see healthy green, flexible wood underneath. Prune it by following the damaged wood back until you find new growth.

The blossom on fruit trees such as apples, pears, apricots and plums may have been frost-damaged, which means there will be slightly less fruit being set, but this should be tempered by the fact that we've had an incredible spring for blossom.

"Everything will be a bit later this year but if we get a long, hot, dry summer, nature should balance it out," Wilson adds.

SETTING THE PACE IN ESTATE AGENCY

NEWMARKET*GUIDE PRICE £639,995

This property is located in a truly unique setting. Rarely are modern homes found in such a spacious environment. This exclusive property can be experienced less than 1.5 miles from Newmarket Clock Tower. The accommodation briefly comprises of an entrance hall, large sitting room, study, open plan kitchen/ family room, utility, cloakroom, dining room, master bedroom with dressing area and en-suite. There is a principal guest en-suite bedroom plus three further bedrooms and family bathroom. Furthermore, there is an integral double garage. Outside to the front there is a lawn and paved area. To the rear, the garden is laid to lawn with several mature trees. This is a handsome detached home providing stylish and beautifully presented accommodation. An internal inspection is a must for the discerning buyer.

BEAUTIFUL PERIOD HOME*GUIDE PRICE £297,500

An impressive period home in the sought after village of Exning. This double fronted house has a wealth of accommodation, it is extremely well presented and would satisfy even the most demanding of tastes. Accommodation briefly comprises of a stunning sitting room, spacious dining room, kitchen/breakfast room, sun room, three spacious bedrooms and a family bathroom. A brand new kitchen graces the rear of the property. NO UPWARD CHAIN.

CHEVELEY ROAD, NEWMARKET*GUIDE PRICE £249,995

A spacious three bedroom detached bungalow on the outskirts of Newmarket on a deceptive size plot, therefore viewing is strongly recommended. The property is only 0.5 miles from the Newmarket Clock Tower thus the amenities that Newmarket has to offer are nearby. Outside the property has a double garage as well as a large frontage with parking for several vehicles to the side of the property. Inside there is a spacious living room, kitchen with separate dining area as well as a large conservatory. There are three bedrooms, the master bedroom has the benefit of having an en-suite. There is also a family bathroom. To the rear of the house there is a tapered garden which is mainly laid to shingle including the benefit of a fish pond.

DUCHESS DRIVE*GUIDE PRICE £599,995

We are delighted to offer this brand new five bedroom house built by David Wilson Homes in the open market. There is no upward chain on this home which means there will be no waiting around to move in. Exciting incentives are on offer for early completion. The accommodation comprises of a lobby, hall, large kitchen/family room, study, dining room, utility and cloakroom. There is a master en-suite with dressing area. 4 further bedrooms and two bathrooms. Outside there is a double garage and garden laid predominantly to grass.

World Cup decals for Corsa

Ready for anything: Vauxhall Corsa.

IT happens every four years – England football fans do their cars up with flags and any other livery to hand. Now you can get it done professionally, because Vauxhall is to launch a stylish set of England decals for the three-door Corsa.

The decals flow from the Corsa's headlamps right the way along its sleek sides. With mirror caps to complement them, you'll stand out from the crowd and be able to support England in style through the summer months and beyond.

The England flag decals and mirror caps for the Vauxhall Corsa 3-door model are available from your local Vauxhall retailer now for only £149 fully fitted and including VAT.

THORLABS

Thorlabs is a broad based optical technologies company with expertise in the design and manufacture of an extensive array of innovative photonics products for manufacturing and research, with an annually published catalogue present in almost every optics laboratory worldwide. The product range covers optical and opto-mechanical components, optical tables and vibration control, nanopositioning solutions, test and measurement systems, imaging systems and laser sources. Founded in 1989, Thorlabs has set standards for the fastest possible delivery of its products, excellent customer service and innovative product designs for the photonics community.

Quality Engineer
Our fast growing Ely, UK facility specialising in motion control and vibration isolation equipment is looking for an accomplished Quality Engineer to grow a strong quality culture in a dynamic global company. The ideal candidate must have good communication skills and a deep understanding of quality and how it pertains to the photonics and biosciences market segments. This individual will have the opportunity to work hands on with a diverse range of products and people and have a significant impact on end to end quality.

Responsibilities:
Interacting with the R&D team to ensure best practices on introduction of new product into the value stream. Continuously improving products and processes internally as well as evaluating and aiding external vendors. Interfacing with customers to ensure compliance and resolution of all reported issues. Analysing root causes of deficiencies and ensuring proper corrective actions are implemented in a timely manner. Reviewing practices, procedures and processes seeking avenues to improve efficiency and effectiveness and reducing risk to product quality. Leading development, implementation, maintenance and improvement of quality system(s).

Critical skills, knowledge and abilities:
A strong knowledge of state-of-the-art quality systems including Six-Sigma. In-depth knowledge of quality metrics, ISO standards, and processes. A strong knowledge of motion control mechanics and familiarity with the associated electronics. An ability to lead a team and coordinate resources to meet quality metrics. Ability to effectively communicate with a wide variety of internal and external customers and/or suppliers globally. Ability to read and understand mechanical production drawings. Familiar with general machining practices and methodologies. Ability to use some or all of the following PC applications: MS Office, Axapta and Solidworks. 5-10+ years experience in a related industry, BS or MS degree; Materials Science, Mechanical Engineering, or related science degree. Proven track record of successful implementation and maintenance of an ISO system.

Applications Engineer
We are seeking a dynamic individual for our sales team who enjoys solving problems and working with our customers to guide them to the best possible selection of products for their particular needs.

Duties & Responsibilities:
Providing technical support to customers for the complete range of Thorlabs products. Developing an in-depth knowledge for the Ely manufactured products (vibration isolation and motion control) for sales support worldwide. Interfacing with multiple support teams around the world. Reproducing set ups and creating technical solutions in the lab. Developing and providing customized solutions and assisting in the design of custom products. Testing prototype products and documenting results. Supporting Marketing and Sales activities by attending Tradeshows and Customer visits.

Required Knowledge and Skills:
A higher education qualification in physics or an engineering discipline, experience with optical fibre, optics, electronics/lasers would be beneficial, excellent communication skills with the ability to deal with internal and external customers, computer literacy. Some programming knowledge would be beneficial.

Technical Sales Engineer
We are seeking a technically minded individual with experience in a customer facing role to join our sales team and assist in maximising revenue potential.

Duties & Responsibilities:
Communicating with customers to understand their application and to meet their needs with our extensive product portfolio. Visiting customers to discuss their requirements as required. Building relationships with existing customers. Identifying and approaching potential customers and converting enquiries from prospects into sales. Generating quotations and following up sales leads. Negotiating with multiple internal departments around the world to resolve issues. Supporting the engineering team by providing market analysis and supporting marketing activities by attending tradeshows.

Required Knowledge and Skills:
Experience in a sales/customer facing role, a higher education qualification in physics or an engineering discipline, experience with optical fibre, optics, electronics/lasers, and excellent communication skills with the ability to deal with internal and external customers, computer literacy. Some programming knowledge would be beneficial.

If you wish to apply for any of the above vacancies please email a copy of your CV with a covering letter, stating your salary expectations to recruitment@thorlabs.com

Pressure on Jarvis after second failure

OLIVER Jarvis suffered another disappointing weekend at the second round of the German Touring Car Masters Championships, with a loss of fuel pressure bringing an end to his race.

The Burwell driver, who crashed out on the first lap of the season opener in Hockenheim, was in line for good points in Valencia, running in third place before he was forced to pull off the track with eight laps remaining.

The 26-year-old said: "My first stint was very good. Unfortunately, we had a problem after the second stop when the fuel pressure was gone all of a sudden. I don't know the cause exactly yet."

"That meant the end of my race. It was too bad, because things were going really well up to that point in time. Now, we've lost many points again today."

The previous weekend, Jarvis competed in a 24-hour race for the first time when he took part in the Nurburgring 24 Hours.

Racing with co-drivers Marco Werner and Mattias Ekstrom, Jarvis unfortunately suffered more disappointment.

The team's involvement came to an abrupt end one-third of the way into the race when Werner, who had just taken the lead, was in collision with a spinning backmarker.

But despite the outcome, Jarvis enjoyed the experience and has developed a taste for endurance racing, setting his sights on the most famous one of all – Le Mans.

"It's an amazing, crazy track," he said. "Every lap of the 14-mile circuit you can be overtaking 20 or 30 cars – or come across an accident in front of you, oil on the track, torrential rain, fog – it's incredible."

"But the race whetted my appetite for 24-hour races and I make no secret of the fact that one day I'd like to compete at Le Mans."

CHEFFINS Estate Agents are celebrating seven years as sponsor of Newmarket Town FC's under-18 team (above). The business, which has backed the side since they were at under-11 level, is delighted with the progress of the players, who this season finished runners up in the Ridgeons North Youth League and reached the semi-finals of the Ridgeons Youth Cup. Spokesman Andy Cummins said: "The club can only operate with the support of local businesses like Cheffins who have been so supportive down the years, but the players are also active on the fundraising front themselves."

On June 3, the club hold their annual fun run on Newmarket Racecourse's Rowley Mile and on July 17, it is annual Football Fun Day tournament for teams representing the club at under-seven to under-13 level. For more details on sponsorship, visit www.nlyfc.co.uk or call 07909 514716. CP

Lawrence stars as Tigers move up standings

MILDENHALL produced a devastating performance in their third consecutive victory to move into joint second place in the National League with a 60-33 win over Plymouth on Sunday.

The entire Fen Tigers line-up found their best form to stun hapless and, at times, unfortunate Plymouth as they reached the 60-point milestone for the first time this year.

The hosts roared into an early 10-point lead and although veteran Mark Simmonds rescued some respite with a 7-2 tactical, the Devils never got close to their in-form opponents.

Maximum hero Jeran Hart set the tone with blistering starts in each of his untouchable five rides, skipper Barrie Evans and Joe Jacobs were beaten only once in another impressive showing by both, and Luke Priest put in his best West Row display yet.

But it was under-pressure reserve Nick Laurence that was the most telling story. On the verge of the axe after a string of woeful displays, he rose to the challenge as he hunted down Jamie Pickard in his first outing and sneaked a point on the line.

In his next, he made the gate and was backed by a superb four laps of team-riding from Evans to see off Matt Bates for a maximum 5-1. But he saved his best for his third race with another fine gate, storming past Simmonds and holding his nerve as the Plymouth No 1 fought back to the line. It was a win that delighted the home crowd.

Laurence said: "I'm very happy with that. I was lacking confidence but the race win boosted me enough to go on and win heat 11."

"The track is working to our advantage now that we have found a slick set-up that everyone likes." Mildenhall – Hart 14+1 (5 rides), Evans 11+3 (5), Jacobs 10+1 (4), Laurence 8+1 (4), Priest 7+1 (4), Wright 5+1 (4), Rayson 5+1 (4), Plymouth – Simmonds 11 (5 rides), Gough 6+2 (6), Bates 5 (4), Starke 4 (5), Stephens 3 (4), Smethells 3 (4), Pickard 1 (4).

>> In brief:

Holley's hot in Edinburgh

ATHLETICS: Paul Holley put recent illness behind him to produce a storming time at the Edinburgh Marathon to clinch 16th place overall in a time of 2hr 43min.

The event, raced in 27-degree heat on Sunday, saw Newmarket Jogger Holley wrap up the club's elite marathon runner award for yet another year.

Keith Williams was next home in 3.29 while Nick Conway pushed through cramp late on to finish in 3.50.

Susannah Rush secured a new personal best of 3.53, followed by Neil Williamson (4.00) and Claudine Butler (4.13).

Miranda Paul (4.14), Carolyn Anderson (4.46) and Stuart James (4.56) completed the Joggers' marathon entries, while Richard and John Beeton (both 1.46) completed the half marathon distance.

Duo unable to force win

TENNIS: Natalie Bacon and Rebecca Stacey produced some dazzling tennis but it was not enough to prevent Newmarket II's 5-3 defeat to Fulbourn in Cambs League, Division Three.

The duo lost a first set tie-break but bounced back to win the next 6-0 and despite the best efforts of the team, which included Helen Lynch and Liz Bell, Newmarket could get the edge against their rivals.

All-rounder Baigent gets better of Mistley

■ From back page and bowling. Especially with his bowling, he has never been nasty enough, but he put a lot of heart and passion and fully deserved his figures."

Martin Taylor's 3 for 35 proved in vain as Mildenhall slumped to a poor 29-run defeat at Sudbury.

Taylor's haul helped get rid of the hosts for 106, but Mildenhall lost two wickets before they got a run on the board and suffered six ducks as they were skittled out for just 77.

Scott Webb did his bit with bat and ball as Haverhill beat Brockley by 12 runs at home in Division Two.

Captain Adam Dellar hit 58 and Webb 56 as the hosts reached 247 for 7. Webb and Simon Youngs then both claimed four scalps apiece as the visitors were sent packing for 235.

In Division Three, Steven Grinling (above right) hammered a century as Mildenhall II thrashed Yoxford at home by 125 runs.

Grinling chalked up 125 while Luke Turner hit 88, skipper Andy Squire 48 and Jason Moore an unbeaten 33 as the hosts set a big total of 318 for 3.

Steven Ready took 3 for 44 and Rhys Desborough 3 for 47 as the visitors fell well short with 193 for 9.

Andrew Leech smashed 77 to get Lakenheath out of trouble in their five-wicket win at home to Little Bardfield.

Greg Palmer grabbed four wickets as the visitors made 214 for 9, but Lakenheath were struggling on 100 for 5 before Leech's intervention alongside Richard Horrex (44 not out) as they reached 217 for 5.

Paul Simmons gave Worlington the platform for a six-wicket success at Clacton-on-Sea II. The hosts set a target of 248 for 5, but opener Simmons top-scored with 73 in response.

He shared a stand of 63 for the third wicket with Richard Ford before the latter put together a fourth-wicket partnership of 101 with captain Daren Hayward (57), Ford seeing the visitors through to 249 for 4 with an unbeaten 70.

Peter Woods just missed a half-century as Exning II went down by five wickets at Halstead II in Division Four.

Woods hit 45 and Ben Readman 38 as the visitors were dismissed for 192.

Simon Lawson took 3 for 50, but Halstead came home with 195 for 5.

Tuddenham lost by three runs at home to Mildenhall III in Division Five after being all out for 236 in reply to the visitors' 239 for 6.

Ton up: After finishing second to Mastery in the St Leger last year, Kite Wood and jockey Frankie Dettori (right) have started the new campaign in flying form

Kite set to fly at Ascot

GODOLPHIN'S Kite Wood got his four-year-old campaign off to the best possible start with an all-the-way win in the Prix Vicomtesse Vigier.

Second in the St Leger to stablemate Mastery last season, the Ascot Gold Cup could now be high on his agenda after he benefited from a fantastic front-running ride from Frankie Dettori.

"I'm happy. He's a horse with class, he showed that last year when finishing second in the St Leger," said trainer Saeed bin Suroor. "Physically he looks much better than last year and he is certainly more relaxed this year, which is a good sign."

"We'll have to see how he is after the race, the ground was quick enough, but it could be the Gold Cup next for him."

"Obviously we'll make a decision nearer the time, he does have other options so we'll see."

■ Gerard Butler has mapped out an exciting campaign for new recruit Lahaleeb.

The four-year-old filly was a top-drawer performer when trained by Mick Channon, for whom she won the Grade One EP Taylor Stakes at Woodbine last October.

She also turned in a clutch of other high-class displays for Channon, including taking second spot in the Irish 1000

Guineas, before being transferred to Fawzi Nass' yard in Bahrain.

Lahaleeb finished seventh in the Singapore Airlines International Cup on her final foray for Nass before being switched to Butler's Newmarket yard early last week.

Her first start for new connections is likely to be at the highest level in the Etihad Falmouth Stakes at Newmarket on July 7.

"She arrived the other day from Singapore and is fresh and very well," said Butler. "She's an exciting horse to have in the yard and we're looking forward to getting her out."

"Her first start will probably be in the Falmouth and, later on, there's options like the Nassau (Goodwood), the Matron (Leopardstown) and the Sun Chariot (Newmarket)."

■ Mark Tompkins is praying for rain to soften the ground in the lead-up Investec Derby for his Chester winner Ted Spread.

"Ted Spread did a bit of work last Friday morning and we are very happy with him – we just want some rain between now and June 5," said Tompkins.

"He will stay the trip and he is an improving horse."

"He will have learned a lot at Chester and his temperament is bombproof – he will just stand there and pick grass."

"If it rains and the ground comes in our favour, then I would hope that he could be fifth or sixth."

■ Henry Cecil's team for the Classics at Epsom is looking increasingly likely to consist of Bullet Train and both Aviate and Timepiece.

The latter pair are the respective second and third favourites for the Investec Oaks and are in the frame to take each other on, with Cecil's third possibility Principal Role bound for the Ribblesdale Stakes at Royal Ascot.

The trainer's only contender for the Derby is Bullet Train, who was under consideration for Ascot but is now set to throw his hat into the ring for the main event.

Each of the quartet are owned by Cecil's long-standing patron Prince Khalid Abdullah and his racing manager Teddy Grimthorpe was able to provide a report of a workout on the gallops for Bullet Train and Timepiece.

The other two are expected to stretch their legs later in the week.

Cecil, a peerless trainer of fillies, has compared Timepiece favourably among some of the great stars of his career despite her being beaten in the Lingfield Oaks Trial.

Bester inspires Burwell to first win

FRANCOIS Bester's pinpoint bowling helped Burwell to their maiden victory as they beat Fakenham in emphatic fashion by 111 runs in the Gibbs Denley East Anglian Premier League on Saturday.

Bester almost took apart the hosts' batting line-up on his own with figures of 7 for 49 as Fakenham were dismissed for just 141 in response to Burwell's target of 252 for 7.

Youngster Henry James had earlier played his part in the win by hammering his first century for the first team with a confident knock of 112 before being bowled by Sanjaya Rodrigo (3 for 68).

James combined well in a third-wicket partnership of 64 with Glenn Goosen before teaming up with fellow teenager Paul Summerskill as they shared a stand of 107 for the fourth wicket.

Summerskill went for 58 after being caught by Colin Brassett off the bowling of Gayan Wijekoon (3 for 70).

In reply, Fakenham struggled to 74 for 5 before Phil Gray (62 not out) and

>> Cricket:

Willam Dunger provided some resistance with a half-century stand, but Bester worked his magic to finish them off.

Captain Mark Bissett was thrilled to see his side get off the mark despite some encouraging performances in their opening games.

He said: "Henry and Paul batted superbly before Fran did it again, cleaning up the tail with his swinging yorkers."

"We've come into this league, looked to be competitive and stay in each game for as long as possible, so I'm delighted to get our first win."

"Our aim was to just stay in this league, but now we're looking to push on from mid-table."

Fordham held their nerve to record a one-wicket win over Godmanchester Town in Tucker Gardner Cambs & Hunts Premier League, Division One. Chasing 144, Fordham suffered early losses before Darren Theobald (31) and Jason Harding (21) brought them into contention.

But when the latter fell, Fordham had just one wicket left with 10 runs needed for victory.

Despite the best efforts of the Godmanchester bowlers, Ian Jellyman (6 not out) and Charles Forden (3 not out) held firm to steer their team to 145 for 9.

Earlier, Trent Pascoe (36 not out) proved the best of the Town batsmen.

Daniel Baigent did an all-round job as Exning ran out winners by 40 runs at home to Mistley in Division One of the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship.

Ollie Fowlston (34) and Liam Bryant (22) put on 57 for the first wicket before Baigent hit 42 and Mark Geeves 71 not out in an eighth-wicket stand of 93 before the hosts were bowled out for 234. Baigent then took 6 for 42 as Mistley were dismissed for 194.

Team manager Tony Catley said: "Daniel deserves credit for his batting
